

Bruce County in Words 2010

This free resource can lead readers and researchers to words—in books, magazines, newspapers, and with music—that tell the stories of Bruce County, Ontario. It is intended to include materials created by people living in Bruce, or about any aspect of life here, past and present, and available in quantity as of December 2010.

In the list, you will find an alphabetical arrangement of titles, with full details of creators, publishers, and short summaries of contents. Librarians and booksellers can use the ISBNs and pages, edition and binding details.

Search using your EDIT/FIND function to locate all the works by an author or the books published in a particular year.

In the publishers' contact section clicking links will lead you to other Web sites or to e-mail for communicating.

While Broad Horizons Books keeps many of these current titles in stock, it does not claim to have all the works in the list. We use information gathered from the creators and/or publishers [often the same source] to compile this update. We make the listings as accurate as possible, without claiming perfection. Please let us know of any errors.

Before you give up finding a book that you 'just know' is 'out there somewhere' check the link to unconfirmed titles. These are books or other materials that have been listed in previous editions, but for which we received no update as this edition went live in February 2011.

As Bruce County's most experienced bookseller—in business since 1976—it is always exciting to discover new ways in which the area appears in words. Let us know your reaction – email to brucedale@bmts.com.
